A call to Summit Professional Resources for an expert witness is the first step in reaching a successful conclusion of your matter. Summit is not a referral database. The quality results we generate and the integrity of our consultants set us apart from simple expert locators. While there are many sources of experts, few can equal the diverse range of background and expertise offered by Summit's experts. We achieve this through careful recruiting of the best-qualified and most capable individuals. Summit stays involved throughout the assignment to ensure that our client's needs are anticipated, met, and exceeded.

Summit Professional Resources has the knowledge and expertise necessary to provide images for your use and presentation. Our professional photographers accompany our experts to document the subject of investigation, thereby recording useful information by design, rather than by chance. In-house photographic service is available for documentation of smaller, portable evidence materials. Specialties such as SEM and photomicrography are also available. Summit's photography specialists may be retained individually to support attorneys, other experts, insurance adjusters and investigators.

Initial inquiry and case discussion are always free of charge.
