

Expertise

Mike Wakshull is a civil and criminal court-qualified document examiner who delivers honest, unbiased results. He partners with attorneys to dissect the evidence presented in handwritten and computer-generated questioned documents. Wakshull applies an objective, verifiable scientific approach (a court requirement) using his scientific experience and training to examine questioned documents. He applies generally-accepted practices such as ASTM, SWGDOC, and SAFE standards. He advises clients on the strength of their cases. He engages his well-equipped laboratory and large forensic reference library to deliver the best results. Wakshull is skilled at explaining complex evidence with clear exhibits, easy-to-understand language and descriptive pictures. His courtroom approach teaches and involves all the trial participants – judge, jury, and attorneys. He worked cases from 23 states, two Canadian provinces, Bahrain, Mexico, and Hong Kong; uses video conferencing to communicate with clients.
