Thomas Roney LLC is an economic consulting firm with offices in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Atlanta and Miami, providing economist and statistical consulting services, damages calculations, valuations, expert reports and expert testimony in support of litigation.

Dr. Volkov received his Ph.D. in Finance from Florida Atlantic University and is an Assistant Professor of Finance at Mercer University, where he teaches undergraduate and graduate level classes in corporate finance, corporate restructuring (via mergers and acquisitions), international finance, and financial analytics.

His research has been focused in the areas of forensic economics, information disclosure, investments, investor behavior, corporate diversification, and mergers and acquisitions and has been presented at the conferences of associations such as the Financial Management Association International, Southern Finance Association, and Eastern Finance Association; among others. Dr. Volkov's research has been published in the Journal of Corporate Finance, Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance, and Global Finance Journal and he currently has papers under review at the Journal of Forensic Economics and the Financial Review.

Prior to a career in academia, Dr. Volkov owned a financial service firm, which focused on investing in longevity-related assets, and worked as a financial analyst at Franklin Templeton Investments. He is an author of an encyclopedia chapter on mutual funds and is a frequent speaker at special seminars on the topic of valuation. He is a member of the National Association of Forensic Economics, Allied Social Sciences Association, Financial Management Associations, Southern Finance Association and Eastern Finance Association.

As a forensic economist, Dr. Volkov specializes in the calculation of economic damages in personal injury, wrongful death, employment, and commercial litigation cases.
