

Esam Z. Dajani, Ph.D., FACG

1549 RFD, Long Grove, Illinois 60047-9532

Phone: (847) 634-9586; Cell (847) 971-7555

EsamD@comcast.net; Esam.Dajani@Gmail.com

www.EsamDajani.wordpress.com

Areas of Expertise: Clinical pharmacology, toxicology, drug development and regulatory affairs (FDA). Professor Dajani provides litigation support and testimony for plaintiff and defense attorneys in the fields of pharmaceutical patent litigations, Cytotec®, drug injury causation, drug-related medical malpractice, medication errors, drug product liability (e.g., warnings, designs, formulations & labeling), adverse effects of health, beauty products and industrial chemicals, forensic aspects of drugs and alcohol intoxication, contract research organizations (CROs). He provides investigations, research, record analysis, consultation, merit statement, and testimony.

Professional Experience: Provided consultation, advice and litigation support since 1993. Forty years' experience in pharmaceutical research and development. Founder and President of IDDC Corporation, a CRO, which provides scientific consulting services for pharmaceutical companies, law firms and governmental agencies. Directed worldwide clinical research and development at major pharmaceutical companies. Led the research teams that discovered and developed misoprostol (Cytotec®) an anti-ulcer drug. Taught pharmacology and toxicology to medical, dental and pharmacy students. Licensed to practice pharmacy in the State of Alabama.

Education: B.S. in Pharmacy, University of Missouri at Kansas City, 1963.
M.S. in Pharmacology & Medicinal Chemistry, Auburn University, 1966.
Ph.D. in Pharmacology & Toxicology, Purdue University, 1969.

Publications/ Presentations: 123 peer-reviewed biomedical articles, book chapters and patents. 131 presentations at national and international biomedical conferences.

Academic Experience: Adjunct Professor of Medicine, Loyola University Chicago, 1995-present.
Adjunct Professor of Pharmacology, Chicago Medical School, 1983-1990.
Adjunct Associate Professor of Pharmacology, Northwestern University, 1980-1995.

Honors: Edgar M. Queeny Award (Monsanto Corporation) for outstanding achievement.
Distinguished Alumnus Award from Purdue University.
Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award.

Professional Affiliations: American Society of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics.
Association for Academic Minority Physicians (President & Board member).
American College of Gastroenterology (Fellow).
American Gastroenterological Association.
Chicago Biotech Network (Founder and Board Member).

Cases/Clients: Plaintiff and Defense.